

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

At the very outset, I wish to express my sincere and heartfelt gratitude to my Supervisor Dr. Prasen Daimari, Principal, Tangla College, Tangla, for his constant source of inspiration, valuable guidance and help throughout the entire course. Without his advice and guidance, this thesis would not have seen the light of day. I thank him for giving me the opportunity to expand my knowledge and abilities.

I owe my thanks and deep gratitude to Dr. Manjit Das, Associate Professor, the Chairman, DRC, Department of Economics and Dr. Mridula Devi, Associate Professor, Head of the Department of Economics & Dean, Faculty of Social Sciences for their valuable suggestions. Again, I am thankful to all the teaching staff of the Department of Economics, Bodoland University, Kokrajhar for their valuable advice and suggestions.

I offer my thanks to the Office Staff of Bodoland University for providing necessary facilities and administrative support.

I am thankful to Dr. Keshab Basumatary, Principal of B.B. Kishan College and Dr. Jagat Ch. Basumatary, Principal of Salbari College for their kind and valuable cooperation at every step of my research work. I am equally grateful to all my friends for their valuable cooperation during the collection of data.

Above all, I will remain ever grateful to all my family members for their moral support, encouragement and sacrifices that enable me to accomplish this thesis.
