

Acknowledgement

At first, I express my deep sense of gratitude to my respected supervisor Dr. Birendra Kumar Brahma, Department of Biotechnology, Bodoland University, Kokrajhar for guiding me with best affection, untiring help, useful advice and encouragement in preparing this thesis.

I would like to express my appreciation to Dr. Arvind Kumar Goyal, Assistant Professor, Department of Biotechnology, Head (i/c), Centre for Bamboo Studies, Bodoland University for his valuable advice, scholarly inputs and consistent encouragement during my entire research endeavor. This feat was possible only because of the unconditional support and the invaluable time provided by him despite of his many other academic and professional commitments.

I am indebted to Late Dr. T. L. Shantha Director, Dr. M. B. Nagaveni (Head), Dr. Sushil Kumar Middha and Ms. Usha Talembedu Middha, Department of Biotechnology and Biochemistry, Maharani Lakshmi Ammanni College for Women, Bangalore for allowing me to carry out the experiments on animal model.

I extend my sincere gratitude to Dr. Sandeep Das, Head, Department of Biotechnology, Bodoland University and other teaching and non-teaching staffs of the Department of Biotechnology, Bodoland University, who have helped me in various ways.

I also thanks to Mr. Jagajit Brahma, Ms. Bijanta Bala Brahma and Mr. Karma Goyari for their help during field work and germplasm preservation.

I am thankful to Dr. R.N. Sinha, Principal, Science College, Kokrajhar for relieving me as and when required to carry out my research work. I would also like to thanks Dr. S. Chakraborty (Head), Sri. B. Nath, Sri. M. Al-Kousar, Sri. T Ahmed, Sri D. Ghosh of Department of Chemistry, Science College, Kokrajhar for moral support.

I acknowledge my heartiest gratitude to my wife Dr. Junumani Deka Dey, who has helped me in various ways in completing this work and my daughter Dhritismita Dey for allowing me to spend most of the time on this thesis.

I am also grateful to my parents Sri Samarjit Dey and Smt Gita Dey and parents-in-laws Sri Pabindra Nath Deka and Smt. Bimala Deka. I honestly believe that it is due to their blessings that I have been able to complete my research work. My brother Sri Shubhrajyoti Dey , his wife Smt Sumita Das and brother-in-laws Sri Jyotiprakash Deka and Sri Shyamal Deka were a constant source of motivation and support to me. I would like to acknowledge their constant encouragement in carrying out this work.

I shall remain ever grateful to my friends, my sisters and sisters-in-laws for their encouragement during the period.

Last but not the least, I extend my gratitude to Mr. Suman Sengupta and Mr. Surajit Roy for his help as and when required.

Above all, I owe it all to Almighty God for granting me the wisdom, health and strength to undertake this research task and enabling me to its completion.

(Swarna Kamal Dey)